

VANCEBURG PASTOR WOULD RID COUNTY OF ITS MOONSHINERS

Former Local Pastor, Now at Vanceburg, Challenges Sheriff Bertram for Appointment as Special Deputy on Moonshining.

Vanceburg, Ky., July 19.—The Rev. L. E. Williams, Lewis county pastor, wants to double as a deputy sheriff to exterminate moonshiners.

He has issued a signed statement in which he says:

"The way moonshine whiskey is being made and bootlegged over the town and county is a shame. It ought to be stopped, and if our county officials will do their duty it will be."

"I have challenged the High Sheriff to appoint me a special deputy for the next two months and he tells me that he will do it."

"If he does and the county officers and good citizens will stand by me something will happen."

Rev. Williams is well and favorably known in Maysville and is known as a man who usually carries through anything that he undertakes. For a time he was the pastor of the second church in the East End and while here displayed great courage. He recently held a very successful revival meeting in Mason county and his many Mason county friends will watch with interest his campaign. If he is given an opportunity to show what he can do in cleaning up the law breakers of Lewis county.

BURNING OIL SPREADS OVER STATEN SOUND

Hurling Liquid Drives Out Hundreds and Causes Million Dollar Loss.

Linden, N. J. July 19.—A flaming flood of burning oil, which swept over the Jersey meadows and spilled into Staten Island Sound, blowing up 34 oil tanks and causing $1,000,000 damage was brought under control today after a fourteen-hour fight.

No lives were lost.

Starting with explosion of a gill in the plant of the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt Co. late yesterday, the "burning sea" covered many acres.

For a time the blazing oil threatened to cross the sound to Staten Island.

All night the scene was illuminated with the glare of burning oil and asphalt. A heavy pall of smoke hung over an area of miles.

The tanks blew up one after another throwing masses of flame skyward and dumping new fuel on the blaze.

Navigation was halted a mile back of the danger zone.

Piers, warehouses and vessels tied up at the wharves along the Jersey shore were endangered.

Firemen from Linden, Perth Amboy, Rahway and Elizabeth fought, shoulder to shoulder, against the flames, while New York fireboats cruised around the edge of the blazing lake.

Temporary dams, thrown up at strategic points to check the flow of the liquid fire, aided in bringing the fire under control.

Many persons were made ill by breathing the oil fumes which settled over a large territory.

All night frightened families, gasping and choking, fled from the danger zone on the Jersey side, carrying their children and what household effects were portable.

DISAPPEARANCE OF TRAVELING MAN BEING INVESTIGATED

Man En Route To Lexington Mysteriously Disappears at Paris—Police of Kentucky Towns Now On Search.

The disappearance of Robert Chilton Holmes, traveling shoe salesman, Knoxville, Tenn., who had $4,000 in his possession, is being investigated by the Kentucky police, while his wife and four-year-old daughter, Sarah Marie, are being cared for by the Lexington Travelers' Aid Society. Foul play is feared.

Mr. Holmes recently sold his home in Knoxville and with the proceeds, $4,000, started for Lexington, where he intended to locate.

When the family changed cars at Paris, Ky., tickets were purchased for Lexington and while Mrs. Holmes and her daughter were boarding the train, Holmes tarried to attend the baggage. When the train pulled out for Lexington, her husband, whom she thought had boarded the train, failed to join Mrs. Holmes. This was Thursday, and no trace has been found of him since.

Mrs. Holmes says she knows of no reason for the disappearance.

MANY ARE EXPECTED TO REGISTER ON SATURDAY

Special Registration for Democrats Will Be Held Next Saturday at Office of County Clerk.

As there is no opposition in the Republican primary there will be no Republican ballots and members of this party will not be required to take a part in the primary election. The Democrats, however, will have a big scrap and County Clerk Owens and his deputies are expecting to register quite a number of people at the special registration to be held on Saturday at the Clerk's office.

Inability to register on any of the regular or special registration days for the national election last year because of absence from the city, illness, or death in the family, privileges one to register Saturday.

The second class includes men and women who have become of age since the national election and men and women who will become of age before the general election in November. Anyone who has moved into the city since the general election, and is eligible to vote in the November election may register to vote in the primary.

The clerks will transfer from one precinct to another Saturday, on application the name of any person who has moved from one precinct to another since the registration prior to the national election.

MYSTERY SHIP MAY PROVE TO BE A BOOZE RUNNER

Ships in North Atlantic Thought to Be Pirates May Prove To Be Liquor Carriers.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 19.—Pirate yarns and reports of mysterious ships seen lurking along the trade lanes of the North Atlantic may be explained by the discovery of "blockade runners" that have been landing cargoes of contraband liquor on the Jersey Coast, in the opinion of revenue agents in this district.

In maritime circles stories have been told of strange vessels approaching merchantmen on the open sea as though prepared to attack, and then dashing off into the darkness without observing the inviolable rules of answering code signals.

It was even suggested that these spectre-like craft might be able to explain the disappearance of certain vessels.

What revenue agents believe to be the explanation of such unusual actions on the high seas was brought about through the seizure of whiskey valued at twenty thousand dollars which is said to have been landed along a cove near Wildwood, N. J., from an alleged "mystery ship."

Prohibition officers declare they are confident smuggling of intoxicants on this coast is being conducted on a tremendous scale. Cargoes worth vast fortunes are believed to have been brought from foreign countries, transferred to small boats at night and cached in infrequent spots.

It is thought probable that the "blockade runners" have also transferred their illegal cargoes to vessels bearing authoritative clearance papers. This, the officers say, would account for the strange actions of the "mystery ships."

The captain of the liquor laden vessel is instructed to meet another vessel, bound for an American port, at a given point along the coast and transfer this liquor which can then be landed with a legitimate cargo. When the "runner" reaches the rendezvous it approaches various vessels and failing to get the proper signal hurries off to prevent discovery.

Is this a time to be letting up on the efficiency of farming? A thousand times No! That would be yielding to a penny-wise, pound-foolish policy.

Yield is the big thing today. A certain yield from the land must first pay the fixed expenses—such an investment in land, interest, taxes, or rent, depreciation on equipment, etc.—to break even. For profit, the yield must go higher.

There comes the mission of good, reliable, time-saving machinery—the kind that's built better, lasts longer, and costs less to operate. That's the kind of

SOLDIER RELIEF MEASURES.

The President, in his address to Congress on the soldier bonus legislation, which he firmly believes should be postponed indefinitely, acknowledge in the strongest terms the nation's debt of gratitude to the former service men, but laid particular emphasis upon the obligation of the government to those that are suffering from wounds and disabilities.

As the President says, "the government has not only spoken, but has acted and accomplished." The present administration has taken the following steps in its program of soldier relief:

1. Appropriated for new, fire-proof hospitals to take the place of the flimsy, one-story, insanitary paperboard buildings in which thousands of sick and wounded men have been treated, the sum of $18,600,000.

2. Corrected the disgraceful conditions which were found to prevail in certain contract hospitals, where men were suffering the most serious deprivation and mistreatment.

3. Authorized the use by the Public Health Service of substantial army buildings throughout the country for emergency hospital purposes.

4. Appointed the Dawes commission which within thirty-six hours surveyed the situation and submitted a scheme of reform which has been incorporated in a bill, already passed by the House, which combined all relief bureaus under a single head.

5. Placed a man at the head of the War Risk Insurance Bureau who adjudicated 10,000 pending cases in a single month, and brought the work up to date.

Some of the specific accomplishments which the President mentions are as follows: Of 107,000 men enrolled for vocational training and rehabilitation 83,000 are in training, four thousand of whom have been returned to gainful occupations; the expenditures for this purpose are at the rate of $468,000,000 a year; out of 887,614 medical examinations requested less than 14,000 await action; 26,000 disabled men have been placed in hospitals, and there remain 6,000 vacant beds available; by July 21 the work of the War Risk Bureau will be current, though new claims are being filed at the rate of 700 a day.

This is a sufficient answer to those who have been complaining that the government has been shamefully neglecting the service men who have needed relief. A part of the credit is due to the last administration, but a great deal to the present one, which is going about the work more efficiently.

MAKING TWO NEW FOOLS.

Mr. American Citizen, whoever you are, try to provide as well as you can for your daughter or daughters, but let "the boy" provide for himself. Anyway, that is what you will do if you want your son to be a real man.

There is not a rich man who made his money by his own efforts who isn't glad, by the eternal, that he was not born rich. He knows that if he had been brought up to wealth, he wouldn't have had half the fun in life—none of the pleasure of achievement that has been his. He knows that great usefulness in life is not only a distinction but a personal joy. And he looks abroad at the lives of wealthy men who got their money from their fathers, he congratulates himself on his great good luck that he had to make his.

As a well-known American writer remarks: "Taking care of wealth and spending it, is a business in itself." The average young man who is given all the money he wants, has too much to do spending it and doing the things in life that wealth and "position" are supposed to demand. When middle life comes he realizes the fatuousness of it all, but it is too late. The golden hours when the ambition for achievement flows strong in the blood, have passed.

Nobody knows better the joy of doing things, of being a real man of action, than the man who becomes rich through his own efforts. Nobody knows better than he the failure of that joy in the man who was brought up to wealth. He knows it so well that, of course, he makes "the boy" go out and work for his wealth and place in life. Does he not?

No he does not! The average father who is self-made gives that son of his the money he wants, and thus plants two fools on the face of the earth—himself and his boy.

JAPS AS FLYERS ARE FAILURES; HAVE NO SKILL

Unable to Master Intricacies of Air Warfare Are the Little Japanese.

Washington, D. C. — Japan is reported, to be building up a navy that can give equal battle to the American fleets, if the time ever comes when these two nations enter into hostilities. There is respect among the naval men of America for the ships of the Japanese navy.

Report of development of aircraft in Japan are meager, however, and there is a surprising lack of respect for the aerial defenses of Japan.

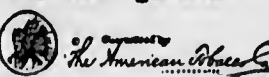

Recent test conducted by the American navy, in which aerial forces have attacked surface craft, have convinced naval experts that aircraft furnish a valuable weapon for the naval warfare of the future.

No official comment is forthcoming from either the navy department or the war department as to the success of aviation in Japan, but it is known that the intelligence divisions of both departments have reports which indicate that at the present time Japan offers no serious opposition to the United States as a possible aerial enemy. These reports show that Japan, rapidly developing her air forces, is building aircraft, but is failing to build a strong force of air-fighters.

The Japanese thus far have failed to indicate that they are a flying race, reports of casualties in the Japanese aerial forces showing a remarkably high death rate. There have been but few Japanese aviators who have shown the intrepid will which makes for good air-fighting. The Japanese air forces are now largely manned by British and German fliers and mechanics.

Whether the Japanese will finally conquer the air is still a matter of conjecture. There are some aviation experts who believe that the people of the orient are psychologically incapable of development as aviators. These experts say that only good horsemen make good aviators, and they declare that the Japanese are not a horse-loving race. Again, it is pointed out that the Japanese are not mechanical, and in support of this it is said that they have not yet mastered the submarine and other complicated weapons of war. Still there are those who have confidence that the people of the eastern country will conquer the air by their perseverance. Others point to the fact that they will always be able to secure foreigners who will man their air-

MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill. — "I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter." — Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it, — but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

New York Letter

by
Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — There is one man in Brooklyn who has lost something of his pride and bravado in big bank notes. The other day he was haled into court for violation of the state prohibition law. He was fined $500. Reaching into his pocket, he drew out a fat roll and peeling off a $1,000 bill, offered it to the clerk. "We're not a bank. We can't change that," he was told. "Well, my, I'm sorry; that's the smallest I've got," he replied with unctious. So the magistrate raised the fine to $1,000!

New York City is taking a great deal of pride in the ovation given by Paris to Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who is over there arranging the exhibition of American Art, with the purpose of familiarizing the French art world with the American school of art. Mrs. Whitney is credited in Paris with being one of the most intelligent art critics, art appreciators, and collectors, which has visited that city of art students in a long, long time.

There seems to be no limit to Elsie Ferguson's supply of energy. At a season of the year when most players are planning vacations Elsie is working on the forthcoming production of a new Zoe Akins play, "The Varying Shore." She has been devoting most of her time during the past few seasons to pictures, and an impatient welcome is waiting for her back on the speaking stage. After the success of "De-classee," a new play by Miss Akins is an important matter.

Sheephead Bay is the business center of the only sea-going newsboy on record. "Jim," which is the only name anyone seems to know, has chosen as his customers the scores of fishermen who sit in silent vigil daily in their rowboats and dories on that popular fishing ground. The newsboy makes his rounds of them all in a stubby little rowboat and his coming is so welcome that he makes considerable "velvet" in tips.

What a remarkable effect have clothes upon personality! Some one—Carlisle, I believe — said that something some time ago. But it's still true. A young woman, who said she was Mrs. Ethel Miller, of the exceedingly civilized address of 62 West 72nd street, went out to shoot up the town the other night and got two blocks toward her ambition. All because somebody lent her a Wild West outfit, cowboy hat and all. Undoubtedly while the animated Ethel had limited herself to a slip-over dress and a silk sweater, a lipstick had been her nearest approach to the warpath. But with the hat, chaps, and revolver, and with two sailors along as a bodyguard, she just had to live up to her scenery. Her warwhoop at the corner of West 64th street and Broadway brought a whole bevy of policemen and a patrol wagon.

Even in this "city of commercialism" some other view of life breaks through every once in a while. (Just as after I imagine, as it does somewhere else in the world.) In the will of Nicholas Allenkoff, New York lawyer, who died the other day, he says, after disposing of the $15,000 which constituted his material wealth, "I beg my children to respect ideals, and 'idealists' and 'dreamers,' for what are dreams today will be realistic tomorrow — and what are called 'iridescent dreams' by our 'practical' men of affairs are the guiding stars of mankind."

One of the most interesting spots in this city is the Music School Settlement. Evidently it is impossible to pick out any type of person on earth and be certain that he — or she — wouldn't be interested in music if he had a chance. Men and women, boys and girls, who have worked all day in factories or at newstands or any other of the thousands of so-called occupations available, crowd into the settlement at night, as eager as a child going to its first party. One of the most enthusiastic music pupils I ever saw anywhere was down there — a man in the middle thirties who stands all day at a steaming press-machine in a cloak and suit factory. But he had energy enough left to grow perfectly delighted over every new step he learned in the mastering of the difficulties of the piano.

INVENTION TO ADD SAFETY TO PLANE-FLYING.
Won't Be Necessary To Have Big Landing Field With New Invention.

Dayton, Ohio. — Years of effort to cut down the comparatively high cost of commercial aviation will be realized, officials of the Dayton-Wright Airplane Company believe, with the patenting of a new wing, invented by an employee of the company. Patents now are pending in Washington.

The wing will be controlled by the pilot, and in coming to earth can be so manipulated that it will arch, much as a bird's wing, enabling a practically undeviating glide to earth, instead of flying at various levels before alighting, it is stated. Pending its patents the company is disclosing nothing further regarding the nature of the invention.

The new wing, according to Col. V. E. Clark, chief engineer of the company, will make possible a reduction in cost by increasing the carrying capacity of any plane upon which it is installed by more than 300 per cent. The same wing area and the same low speed in landing are retained, he said.

It is singular that the invention was practically completed by a co-worker of the Wright brothers—J. M. Jacobs, an employee of the Dayton-Wright Company for twelve years. He spent seven months working on plans for the wing. The invention was concluded under the direction of Col. Clark. Officials of the Dayton-Wright Company expect it to revolutionize commercial flying. In addition to increasing the carrying capacity of a plane, the wing, Col. Clark said, will make it possible to decrease the landing speed by 30 per cent. If the same load is carried as with ordinary wings, and increase the flying speed by 25 per cent, carrying the same load.

Most of the danger of landing will be eliminated he said, and a flyer will be enabled to land safely in a small field, now one of the most difficult things to accomplish in cross country flying.

Advantage of the improvements, Col. Clark pointed out, may be taken as conditions arise and as the pilot sees fit.

Another saving that should be reflected in the freight cost, he added, is that landing fields will not have to be as large, for in keeping the same load as with ordinary wings, a flyer may get into a field one-tenth as large. Small municipalities, he pointed out, could better afford to establish such fields.

Increasing the carrying capacity of a plane will be accomplished, Col. Clark said, by adding to the total weight of the plane, hence giving more poundage room for fuel and load. A plane that ordinarily has a capacity of 1,000 pounds for fuel and load, with the new wings may take on 4,200 pounds.

They are designed to give a slow speed and a high lift in landing, and a purely high speed in flight.

The gliding angle may be changed without changing speed. It is necessary with old type wings to jockey with the throttle to keep at the lowest speed, Col. Clark continued.

In landing in a restricted space, the wings may be set so as to offer increased resistance, making possible a landing at the closest possible point to a barrier.

EARLY PLOWING WILL GIVE BEST RESULTS WITH WHEAT.

Experiences of Kentucky wheat growers agree with experiments in showing that best results in growing the crop are obtained by plowing land while it is to be broken between the middle of July and the first of September, according to Prof. George Roberts, head of the soils and crops department of the College of Agriculture. Early preparation of the seed bed gives a more compact bed, a necessity for wheat, it prevents the escape of moisture and develops more available plant food, according to the specialist.

"Farmers have found that it is generally advisable to disc ahead of the plow in preparing the seed bed for wheat. This practice gives a betterpulverized bed which firms down in better shape. In breaking it is well to use a harrow or other clod-crushing implement on each day's plowing before the clods dry out and become hard. After the ground is broken it should be harrowed following a rain in order to break up the crust which forms. Just before the seed is drilled it is a good plan to run a tooth harrow over the soil followed by a roller. This should be followed immediately by the drill.

"Ordinarily, plowing for wheat is not to be advised on soil where wheat follows a cultivated crop such as corn, tobacco or beans. If such soil is plowed it does not have an opportunity of firming down properly. It is only necessary to obtain enough loose well-pulverized soil to cover the seed."

LABOR RECRUITING HALTED.

San Junn, P. It. — Plans for recruiting laborers here for work in the Hawaiian cane fields have been postponed as a result of articles in the newspapers in opposition to the undertaking. The original plan was for some 1,300 laborers to sail this month. Several hundred laborers already have agreed to go wherever transportation is available.

THREE GUN BATTLES HAVE PROVEN FATAL

In Three Fights in Kentucky Mountains Monday Deaths Have Resulted.

Lexington, Ky., July 19. — Three fatalities as results of gun battles occurred in the mountains Sunday. Henry Wilson, a notorious moonshiner, was shot and killed. Edward Baker, 15 years old, was shot and killed, and his father, Rufus Baker, 45 years old, dangerously wounded, by a man said to be John Rooney, a miner. James Lucas was the third man killed.

Johnny Clay surrendered to the police as the slayer of Lucas.

The killing of Wilson took place on Brownie's Branch, near Cubage, when the mountaineer resisted arrest. He was killed by government officials.

Baker also died in Pike county, the shooting taking place on Straight Creek.

Clay asserted he found Lucas in his home at Ravena, Estill county, and said he shot in self-defense when Lucas, he asserted, reached toward his hip pocket as if to draw a weapon.

KENTUCKY FARMERS ARE NOW KEEPING BOOKS

Many Farmers in This State Are Adopting Proper Business Methods On Their Farms This Summer.

Kentucky farmers are realizing that it is necessary to keep books in order to have a systematic and balanced business, according to C. U. Jett, extension specialist of the farm economics department of the College of Agriculture. Mr. Jett has just completed a number of farm accounts for both men and boys in a number of counties in the state. A report of the schools shows that 337 farmers attended the schools held for them in 16 counties.

Approximately 175 boys were enrolled in the work which was given in the agricultural departments of high schools in seven counties under the direction of Mr. Jett. In the course of the work of the men and boys were shown how to make an inventory of the farm business and how to use a special farm account book for recording the expenses and receipts of the farm operations with the idea of balancing up the farm business and placing it on a systematic basis. Mr. Jett plans to visit them from time to time and assist them in keeping the records.

CANDIDATE SLAIN.

Hazard, Ky., July 19. — J. Bony Combs, 40 years old, died here Sunday night from the effects of pistol shot wounds received. It is alleged by officers, at the hands of T. C. Combs in a difficulty a few hours before.

Both men were candidates for jailer of Perry county and were bitter opponents. The alleged assailant, who is 30 years old, is said to be still at large. Both men were married and had large families. They were not related.

Louisville, Ky., July 19. — Mrs. William L. Taylor Monday rushed into her home which was burning, and braving flames and dense smoke carried her infant baby to the street, meantime acting as a guide to safety for her two other children, all of whom were asleep on the second floor when the fire started. She afterward fainted and neighbors revived her.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Ky., July 19. — Only a small power house remains of the practically new plant of the Louisville Conserves company, Highland Park, visited last night by a fire estimated to have done $225,000 damage. Eight one and two-story structures scattered over 3½ acres, burned, the concrete office building being among the ruined buildings. In one of the burning buildings were thousands of cans of preserved strawberries. As the cans exploded, with loud reports, they were thrown high into the air, and showered about. About 25,000 gallons of tomato catsup were stored in another of the buildings. Explosions filled the air with the hot, red liquid. The spectacular fire attracted motorists from all parts of the city.
